

JOHN R. WALSH IS DEAD AT HIS HOME IN CHICAGO TODAY

THE GREAT CHICAGO FINANCIER PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING.

JUST OUT OF PRISON

Had Been Released from Leavenworth Penitentiary a Week Ago Where He Was Serving Term for Violating Banking Laws.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—John R. Walsh, the former financier who was released on parole just a week ago from Leavenworth penitentiary after serving a part of his five year sentence, died this morning of heart failure at his home.

JOHN R. WALSH.

Financially overextended the strict limits of the banking laws in Chicago and the National bank of which he was president.

The bank failed on January 1, 1907, Walsh was indicted under one hundred and eighty counts and after three years of legal battling to escape prison, the supreme court of the United States, on January 13, 1910, refused an appeal and on the 15th Walsh began his five year term.

After continued efforts on the part of Walsh's friends, he was finally released on parole October 14th. He returned to Chicago in a feeble condition.

Yesterday the financier complained of feeling ill. Stimulants were given. The family physician was summoned and the patient experienced a sinking spell.

From then on it was a battle of physicians who were called to keep the spark of life in the aged man's body. Early in the morning in the presence of the entire family, he died.

Members of the family state that the banker's death was due to morbid brooding over his condition.

No funeral arrangements have been made.

Health Was Poor.

Walsh had been in bed most of the time when he arrived here from Leavenworth October 15th. His health failed soon after his entrance to the federal prison where an examining physician diagnosed his case as hardening of the arteries.

After his release Walsh is thought to have been further weakened by a long automobile ride from the prison to Kansas City. The weather was cold and the machine was racing to catch a train.

A sensational headline on Walsh's death was thrown by Dr. D. D. Inge, his son-in-law, who declared his death was due to the delay in obtaining Walsh's release from prison.

Ingebook held that President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham were responsible for the delay, claiming they ignored the medical statements that Walsh was dangerously ill.

ARIZONA TO HOLD ITS FIRST PRIMARY

Statehood Machinery Will be Put in Motion For First Time Tomorrow to Select Candidates For First State Election.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 23.—The statehood machinery of Arizona will be set in motion for the first time tomorrow, when a general primary will be held for the selection of candidates to be voted for at the first state election, which is to be held early in December.

The nominations will include candidates for governor and all other state officers, members of the legislature, three judges of the supreme court and representatives in congress and county and precinct officers. Additional interest is given the primary by the fact that the voters will express their choice for two United States senators. According to the constitution the choice of senators in the primary will be binding upon the legislature.

Interurban Cars Run to Station: The noon interurban car which came up today was the first to run to the new freight station on Main street over the "Y" siding which has been built up to the loading platform. The wire car will finish its work here today or tomorrow. The bonding car was up from Rockford today to bond the rails of the Main street extension.

THIRTEEN MEN MAY HAVE BEEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Two Bodies Have Already Been Taken From Mine at Harrisburg, Ill.—Situation Is Serious.

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 23.—An explosion in the O'Gara mine, No. 3, this morning is reported to have killed thirteen men. Two bodies have been taken out.

Rescue parties are attempting to reach the part of the mine where the bodies are entombed, but there is great danger of further death caused by falling walls.

Nine Were Killed.

Nine men were killed and ten seriously injured were carried up by rescuers and fifteen more were imprisoned by a cave-in, as the result of the explosion of a keg of powder which ignited black dump today at the O'Gara mine, No. 3 near here.

That more lives were not lost is due to the fact that a shift was changing men at the time the explosion occurred.

The explosion, which occurred a hundred feet down, was heard here. After rescuers brought up the dead and wounded they attempted to reach the men caught behind the cave-in but were driven back by gases.

TAFT CONTINUES ON HIS WESTERN TRIP

Is Still in South Dakota Where He Delivers Many Addresses Today—Talked to School Children.

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 23.—President Taft left for the central and northern part of the state today where he will be the guest of several South Dakota towns. Following his breakfast he made a short talk to the school children here from the platform of his car.

FIND SENIORS BEST
BUT NONE TOO GOOD IN PROBLEM WORK

Highest Per Cent of Upper Class Get Passing Mark in Arithmetic Work According to Announcement.

That Janesville high school seniors are more expert in figuring percentage problems than the other classes of the high school, is found from the results of the work done by the students last week, according to the announcement made by Prof. H. C. Inell this morning. Fifty-two per cent of the seniors attained a standing of eighty or better, while only a third of the Juniors passed.

Sixty-six persons in the entire high school were credited with a perfect mark as follows: Nine Seniors, eleven Juniors, forty-one Sophomores, and five Freshmen. While the number of Sophomores receiving a perfect mark was larger than the sum of perfect marks for the other three classes, the number of students in that class who fell below the passing mark brought down the total average.

The reasons given for the large number of failures is that the students were unable to read the problems understandingly and interpret the meaning. The test consisted of five problems in percentage involving three causes: Given the cost and the selling price, to find the gain or loss per cent; given the gain or loss and the gain or loss per cent, to find the cost; or the selling price.

It is planned to give other brief tests in arithmetic work to the students during the opening exercises at various times in the future to give the students better training and perfect them along lines in which complaints are constantly being made.

CHURCH RANSACKING DONE BY STRANGERS

Robbery of Madison Congregational Church Thursday Night Adds Weight to Theory That Out-siders Broke into Baptist Church Here.

That the person or persons who broke into the Janesville Baptist church on Friday evening were outsiders and professional church thieves appears probable from the fact that on the night previous the Congregational church at Madison was burglarized and $11.15 in cash obtained by the thieves. The manner in which they broke into the building and ransacked the rooms is almost identical with their actions in this city. They entered through a rear basement window and broke open the door of the dining room. Offices were entered and desks piled open. Checks and drafts in these were not touched. A large number of burned matches were scattered over the floor, indicating that the thieves had been in there some time. The Wisconsin Congregational Association maintains its headquarters in the basement of the church and handles considerable money during the year. It seems that the thieves were aware of this. The Rev. P. J. Sheldon, superintendent of the Congregational churches of Wisconsin, is of the opinion that the burglars are members of the gang which has been breaking into the Milwaukee churches.

FIRST IN BARGAINS GIVEN TO REHBERG

Amos Rehberg Company Offered $1.50 Umbrellas for $1.00 Last Tuesday and Won Award.

With an offer of $1.50 umbrellas for $1.00, Amos Rehberg and Company were given first place in the Gazette's Best Bargain Page of last week. The committee who made the rounds of the different stores and decided that this was the best bargain, was three ladies from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church. The result was not surprising as this was an extraordinary bargain on a useful article.

It is probable that the decision was gained after long debate, this last week, because the offers were better than ever and therefore harder to judge. The decision was made, however, on the basis of greatest cut in price, coupled with usefulness and advantage to the greatest number of people.

The committee this week will consist of three ladies from the Independent Order of Good Templars. Watch for the parade, study the bargains, save money and see if your judgment tallies with that of the committee.

Superstitious Mexicans.

Superstition reigns supreme among the Mexicans. They never build a fire without making the sign of the cross in front of the stove. A child, cross to talk in bed on bedded swallows, and colored glass beads, ground fine, are given for paralysis. The entire religion of the Mexican is full of suffering.

If you have lost or found anything, advertise it in the want column and you will be sure to get quick results.

IMMENSE CROWDS AT CLEVELAND, OHIO

New Tonic "Tonn Vita" Brings Throngs to Physicians in Charge.

"The physicians who have charge of the introduction in Cleveland of the remarkable new tonic, called 'Tonn Vita,' have been unable to handle the immense crowds who have flocked to see them during the past week. 'We expect to meet 50,000 people before we leave Cleveland,' said one of these physicians recently.

"Any man or woman in Cleveland who is a victim of nervous debility is making a grave mistake if they do not try this medicine. The symptoms of nervous debility are often mistaken for something else, stomach trouble, as a rule, but there is no mistaking debility for any other complaint by those who understand it. The following symptoms are characteristic of this trouble: Lassitude, nervousness, timidity, depression of spirits, little vitality, cold feet, headaches, stomach and bowel trouble, weak back with dull pain at the base of the spine. These are all unmistakable symptoms of nervous debility, and there are thousands of people who are so afflicted.

"Tonn Vita" will not in such cases like a true specific; from the first moment the medicine is taken, improvement is rapid. A dozen people who started taking the tonic last week told me today that they are like different individuals. One woman told me for four years until the past few days. She stated that she used to sing, but had been so depressed in spirits that she had not done so for several years. She stated that she had been singing while attending to her household duties during the past few days as she had not done since she was a girl.

"A trial is all that is necessary to prove to an individual suffering from nervous debility that this woman had good cause for singing. Eliminating debility from the system is like lifting a weight from the heart and a cloud from the brain."

Smith Drug Co. have secured the agency for "Tonn Vita" in Janesville, and the remarkable tonic is now for sale at their store.

VICTORY SURPRISES NOTABLE FEATURE IN JANESVILLE ELEVEN COLLEGE ATHLETICS

Local Football Team Finds Itself Much Superior to Waukesha and Taken Game 11 to 0.

Surprised at their own strength and playing their opponents to shut-out victory, 11 to 0, the Janesville football team won the laurels from the Waukesha eleven at the latter's field Saturday afternoon. From the very beginning of the game the local players demonstrated their superiority and at no time was their goal in danger of being crossed by the Waukesha team. Touchdowns in the first half by Korst and Eller, the half backs, made up the Janesville count and while in the second half it seemed only the fair thing to allow the local players another score, or some reason or another, the officials saw otherwise.

Janesville's line held like the proverbial stone wall during the first downs in which the local team played the offensive, and Cannon at center displaying a remarkable ability at smashing the opponents' formation before it was entirely formed. The Janesville back field, also, worked like a machine and under the excellent direction of Kelly, at quarterback responded with a rush that meant long gains time and again. Strength was displayed in the forward pass and trick plays as well as the oldstyle game, and the victory over the long-standing opponents at Waukesha will do much to inspire confidence for the remainder of the season.

The lineup Saturday was as follows: JANESVILLE: Duran, quarterback; Thurnacher, halfback; Wilkinson, fullback; Cannon, center; Swain, halfback; Dalton, fullback; Hunter and Price, end; Davidson, fullback; Harris, fullback; Sutherland, fullback; Kelley, fullback; Lord, fullback; Korst, fullback; Eller, fullback; French, fullback.

Shaving Women.

In the very heart of a busy section of New York is a barber shop which is open from 1 to 12 o'clock every Sunday for the accommodation of women, who go there in flocks to be shaved or have their hair shampooed and dressed. Until recently barbers visited the residences of bearded ladies to perform the "barbarous" act of depilation.

PLAYERS IN THE WORLD'S SERIES.

GOOD WEATHER WILL MEAN A FAST RACE

Auto Contest Tomorrow Between Buick and Overland Cars Will Be Most Exciting.

With good weather tomorrow there promises to be one of the most interesting auto races ever held in Janesville. The interest in the contest between the Overland car, driven by Herman Horn, and the Buick, driven by Herman Philippi, has reached the stage where several hundred dollars have been wagered on the outcome. The race will be for ten miles and the Park Association has taken charge of the affair and will charge an admission to the grounds with the grandstand free. If it does not rain, even though the weather remains cold, it will give the contestants a fast track to work on.

GERALD HAYES

MAY GET BERTH IN MAJOR LEAGUE.

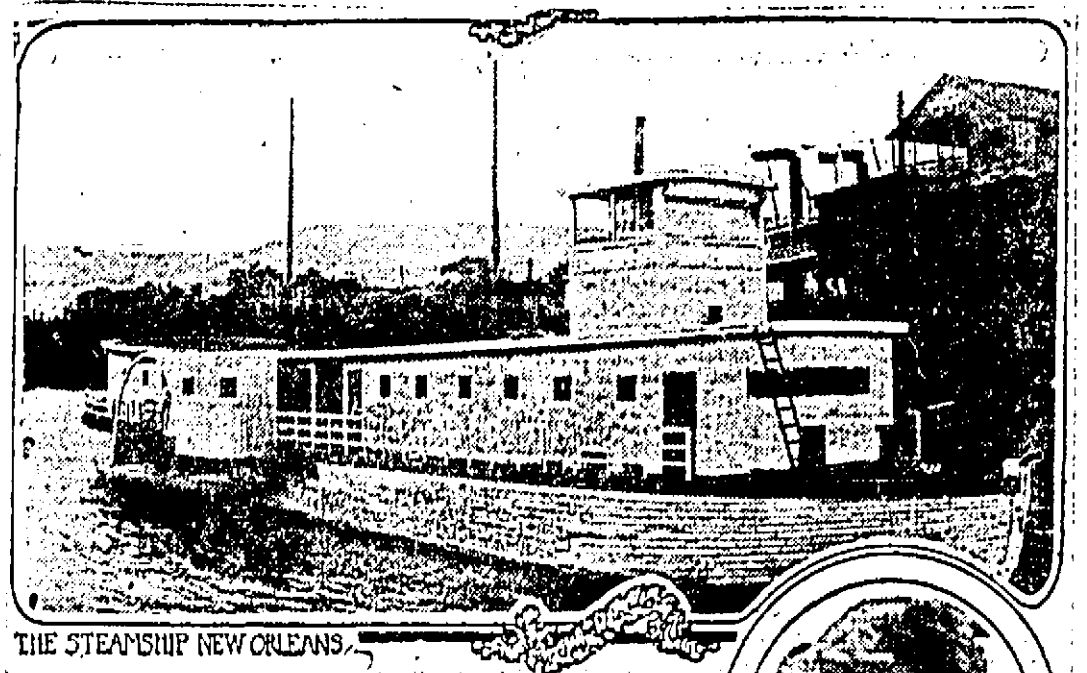

Chicago, Ill.—It is not improbable that another American Association umpire will graduate in time to be in faster company in 1912. He is Gerald Hayes who for four years has given satisfaction as umpire in the association. It is said Mr. Hayes is wanted by one of the big leagues and the chances are that he will go to the National League. Umpires Klein, Danneberg, Egan, Steve, and Kane are graduates of the American Association.

Cement for Glass.

Melt a little isinglass in spirits of wine; add a small quantity of water; warm the mixture gently over a moderate fire. When mixed by thoroughly melting it will form a perfectly transparent glue, which will unite glass so nicely and firmly that the joint will scarcely be noticed by the most critical eye.

TO GIVE AUTUMN PARTY

Among the first of the autumn parties of the season will be one given by the Daughters of Isabella at Assembly hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 24. This being their first annual affair every effort has been put forth and great preparations have been in process for some time to make this a most unique and enjoyable event. A large orchestra of seven pieces has been engaged to furnish the music. The hall is being artistically decorated with autumn leaves and potted plants, also with cozy corners have been arranged. A great many invitations have been extended and a large crowd is expected to be present.

Saliva Anti-Snake.

TREASURER MISSING; UNION FUNDS GONE?

Frank Novak, Entrusted With Moneys of Harnesmakers' Union and Ladies Aid Society of Honor, Is Alleged, Has Disappeared With the Funds.

Frank Novak, treasurer of the local harnesmakers' union and of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, has disappeared, and it is alleged, the moneys of both organizations are missing. No complaint has yet been made to the police, but they will probably be asked to communicate with the police in other cities to search for him as soon as the bonding company goes through the necessary review of the situation. General President W. J. Bryan of the Harnes Makers' Union will arrive this evening and will make an examination of the books of the local branch. J. C. Robinson, state manager of the Order of Knights and Ladies of Honor, will be here some time this week for the same purpose. Officers of several lodges who have made a careful examination of the records report that for several bills which they supposed were paid no receipts are to be found. The amounts of these is between twenty-five and thirty dollars. Other alleged defalcations may be found.

Novak is also alleged to have swindled other people. After mortgaging a horse, harness, and carriage with a local loan company he is said to have sold the same property to a Janesville lawyer. The adjustment company closed up the mortgage on Novak and it was at that time that the purchase was found that they had been "done."

COMMERCIAL MEN TO INCREASE THE FUND

United Commercial Travelers Will Raise a Hundred Dollars for Black River Falls Sufferers.

The United Commercial Travelers' association took up the question of a fund for the Black River Falls sufferers, and decided to make an effort to raise $100, in one dollar subscriptions. Percy L. Munger was made treasurer for the fund, and anyone desiring to contribute may leave the money at the People's drug store. The funds, when raised, will be forwarded by the Gazette.

SEEKS INFORMATION OF MAYOR NICHOLS

Danish Consul in Chicago Wishes to Locate Sister of Micah Northman.

Mayor John C. Nichols has received a letter from the Danish consul in Chicago asking for information as to the whereabouts of a sister of the late Micah Northman, who is thought to have resided in or near Janesville. Mayor Nichols would be glad if anyone who knows the whereabouts of the person wanted to inform him at once. It appears that Micah Northman left an estate and search is being made for his heirs.

Beauty's Age.

How to lengthen life and beautify the body is a constantly growing preoccupation. The age at which women will attain to the full development of their personal beauty will soon be 40, and famous examples, such as those of Cleopatra, who was over 30 when Marc Anthony placed his victories at her feet, of Diane de Poitiers, who reached the acme of her charms at 40, or of Dejazet, who at 70 was still full of juvenile grace, will no longer be regarded as exceptions.

LARGE AMOUNT OF WORK ON CIRCUIT

Unusual Length and Number of Jury Cases in Green and Jefferson Courts Keeps Judge Busy.

With one more week required to complete the business on the jury calendar in the circuit court for Green county, and another week's work for Judge Grimm on jury cases at Jefferson county, there will be no time for the consideration of court cases in either of the other counties before the beginning of the jury term of the circuit court for Rock county. Judge Grimm was at the court house this morning on his way to Monroe, and stated that the amount of work at the Green county court has been very heavy this season, the number of cases not being especially large, but all of the parties to suits being anxious for trials which had been of rather long duration.

It is possible that a number of the jury cases on the circuit court calendar here may be settled before term, but the time needed to complete the work of the jury will undoubtedly range from twenty-five to fifty days, thirty to thirty-five days being given as a more reasonable estimate. This will bring the jury work well into the month of December, after which there will be a week or so needed to dispose of the matters for the court at Jefferson and several days at Monroe, before the court census for Rock county can be brought for consideration. This will make an unusual amount of work for the judge for the present winter, the demands for his services at each of the three county seats coming in quick succession, so that there will be the minimum amount of time between the court sessions for the various counties.

Ontario Sunday Schools.
Brookville, Ont., Oct. 23.—With Sunday school workers present from all over the province, the forty-sixth annual convention of the Ontario Sunday School Association will continue here today. The sessions will continue four days and will include a celebration of the completion of one hundred years of Sunday school work in this section. The first Sunday school in Ontario was established just one hundred years ago this month in the village of Elizabethtown, now the city of Brockville. Today there are more than 5,000 Sunday schools in Ontario, or about one half of the total number in all Canada.

CASE OF STATE VS. FULLERTON SETTLED

Defendant Apologizes, Pays Costs of Action Against Him, And Promises Not to Repeat Offense.

A settlement was effected in the Municipal court this morning in the case of the state against James Fullerton of the town of Rock. Fullerton was held on a charge of using abusive language concerning Augusta Phelps in the presence of her husband, Emory Phelps. After the attorney for the state and the defendant had discussed the case with Fullerton, he promised to apologize to Mrs. Phelps, pay the costs of the action against him, and not to repeat the offense. This done, the case was declared dismissed.

HOW COAL MINERS ACTUALLY SHARE IN THE PROFITS

As a result of the award of the Strike Commission appointed by President Roosevelt in 1902, the Pennsylvania anthracite mine workers began to share in the profits of their industry. A bonus of 4 per cent was added to their pay last month, and in some months it runs to 8 or 9 per cent.

The Strike Commission, after granting a flat ten per cent advance in wages, established what is known as the "sliding scale." It is from the operation of this that, in addition to the extra ten per cent awarded by the Commission, there is a further advance of 1 per cent for every rise of five cents in the price of anthracite at the mines.

The United States Commissioner of Labor gathers every month the figures from which to calculate the average price, and then notifies both operators and miners what the bonus amounts to. If the price is $4.70, for example, the bonus is 4 per cent; if it is $4.75 the bonus is 5 per cent, and so on.

A decline in the price of coal below $4.50 cannot cause a corresponding decline in the mine worker's pay. The Commission, in awarding the ten per cent advance over what the men got before the 1902 strike, decreed that this should be a minimum. The Commission stated positively that the "sliding scale" was to work in one direction only—upward.

Democracy in France.

An interesting story of the practice of democracy comes to us from a little village named Maule, in the department of Seine-et-Oise, between Mantes and Versailles, France. The following notice is painted up in different places in the village: "M. Duchesne begs to inform hunters that he reserves all rights of hunting in his property in the commune of Maule. The following alone are authorized to hunt: (1) Workmen (every citizen in the employment of a "patron" is considered as a workman). (2) Every father of a family with five children living. M. Duchesne is the democratic landlord, and the hunting here referred to is the shooting of anything in the way of game which the hunter may chance to meet, with the right to sell all that falls to his gun.

Horse Saved Rider.

Clarence Yeager of Beverly, N. J., probably owes his life to the action of his horse in unconsciously being the cause of rescuing him from an awkward situation early the other morning. Yeager was driving along a lonely road when a highwayman leveled a revolver at him and demanded his valuables. As the highwayman turned the horse halfway around so there could be no possible way on the narrow road for Yeager to escape, the horse planted his hoof hard on the man's foot. He screamed and fell with the pain. Yeager was quick to seize the opportunity. He turned the horse around and whipped up and galloped away. He was without any kind of a weapon.

Caddies Rise in Revolt.

The golf caddie has risen in revolt at last, and the golfer's pet privilege is thereby seriously endangered. Hitherto the player has considered the links an excellent place for giving vent to his feelings. And, lastly, when one grew tired of anathematizing clubs, play, the ball alike, there always remained the caddie! But now the caddies of Bray, Ireland, mean to put an end to this state of affairs. A strike was proclaimed, and an indignation meeting held around the first hole. Finally, amid many things, it was decided to complain of and protest against the strong language that was used to them and in their presence, and which they were forced to swallow and endure in silence and humiliation!

A Four Years' Drift.

Captain Evelyn H. Baldwin, the well-known Arctic explorer, who commanded the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition of ten years ago, stated at Baltimore recently that he was planning another expedition for 1913. He proposes to enter the pack-ice north-west of Barrow Point, Alaska, and make his ship fast to an ice-ber, in the belief that he will be able to drift near to, if not actually over, the North pole, eventually entering the North Atlantic between Spitzbergen and the east coast of Greenland. He does not expect to emerge from the ice until 1917.

Watch Children's Nerves.

Mothers should guard their children from nervous exhaustion, a form of fatigue which often manifests itself after concentration on the part of the child either in play or work. Its chief indications are yawning, indifference, or irritability. Children should not be allowed to do for any length of time work which requires much concentration, and should be taught how to relax. This is an easy thing to accomplish and is of the utmost importance for children of a highly strung nervous temperament.

Newest Thief-Catcher.

A recently invented thief-catcher for stores consists of a system of levers, which will close doors from behind a counter on pressing a pedal and at the same time ring an alarm outside the building.

Slow But Honest.

Philadelphia continues to hold the palm for slowness. At the public library they have a number of books which were taken out and held for ten, 15 or 20 years. One book was returned after being out more than a century. They are slow but honest.

Wise Advice.

Without labor there is no arriving at rest, nor without fighting can the victory be reached. Be thou therefore always prepared for the fight if thou wilt have the victory.—Thomas a Kempis.

GAVE FINE ADDRESS AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

Dr. R. R. Biewa of Evansville Seminary Gave Sunday Afternoon Talk—Other Evansville Items.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, October 23.—A very good and interesting talk was given by Dr. R. R. Biewa, president of the Seminary, to about thirty-five men and boys in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Sunday afternoon. He spoke on the importance of Bible study in our schools of today. These Sunday afternoon meetings will continue throughout the winter. Special music by Y. M. C. A. orchestra and quartet will be rendered and it is hoped that as many men and boys as possible will become interested and attend these meetings.

Spectacular Suicide.

A Russian army officer recently invited all his friends and acquaintances to a garden party to celebrate "an especially important event in his life." The fête was a great success, and at night, while a display of fireworks was being given and a band playing the host went out on a balcony, saying that he was going to make a speech. When everybody's attention had been drawn to him he raised his hands and plunged from the balcony to the lawn below, where he was picked up dead.

Gazette Travel Bureau

NEW CONVENIENCE ESTABLISHED FOR THE FREE USE OF THE PUBLIC

For some time past preparations have been in progress for the establishment of a Travel Bureau at the Gazette Office.

The object of the Bureau is to furnish gratuitous information regarding travel, routes, etc., as fully as possible; the service will be entirely impartial and advice will be offered as to the most convenient route to any given point.

desiring to make use of the BUREAU.

Practically all of the various lines of railroads and transportation companies, including steamship and boat lines, all over the country have furnished their time tables and literature for this bureau and all current literature and folders will be supplied by these companies as fast as they are issued.

A specially constructed folder rack with pockets for 100 different folders has been installed and filled with the time tables and printed matter, available to anyone.

Bureau Will Be Popular

There is a demand for such a convenience as this, people generally are not familiar with the lines of road over which they pass to their destination. They know nothing about connections or the time of trains, steamships or boats. They cannot always find literature pertaining to this matter and with all these points supplied through the GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU, the prospective traveler is enabled to map out his trip without the inconveniences which have heretofore beset him.

Attractive Travel Literature

Some very handsome descriptive matter is among the material at the Bureau. If you contemplate a trip to the west or northwest this winter or to the south or to the southwest, many of the folders and books will interest you. If you will journey to Cuba or take a cruise on some of the popular bodies of water to neighboring islands, the BUREAU will supply you with the proper literature descriptive of that particular point.

Make use of this Bureau, feel perfectly free to call or write at any time and your requests will receive careful attention.

Lyman Brothers Twin Comedians, Refuse to Work in Summer.

A correspondent calling at the hotel to interview the Lyman Twins, asked them if they worked all summer as well as in the winter. "Work in the summer," answered one of the boys in a hurry. "Not if we can help it after thirty-eight weeks of hard work on the road. But we broke the rule this last summer and tied up five weeks with Wm. Morris in vaudeville, but the weather came off too warm after playing two weeks, the houses were worse to play closed and we were glad to get out of the contract. REVIVAL MEETINGS HELD AT EDGERTON

Dr. Joel A. Smith of Beloit is Conducting Series of Meetings at Methodist Church—Other News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Edgerton, Oct. 23.—A series of revival meetings began last evening at the M. E. church, in charge of Dr. Joel A. Smith, an evangelist of Beloit. There was a big attendance on the opening night and much interest was manifested. Prof. Phommie, also of Beloit, teacher of vocal and instrumental music, has charge of the musical numbers and in a day or two the force will be increased by the addition of Prof. Dibble, a noted soloist, and one or two others.

Personal. Joseph J. Leary went to Madison this morning on business. Henry S. Morrissey was home from Madison over Sunday at the parental home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of Port Atkinson spent Sunday in this city with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, making the trip by auto.

John Wille and sister, Viola, spent Sunday in Janesville with relatives.

James Cunningham went to Lake Mills, Saturday, to assist John Quilley in the livery for the next four weeks. George Bucknall has gone to Janesville where he has accepted a lucrative position with the Rock County Sugar company.

Misses Rose and Alice Morrissey of Janesville were home over Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morrissey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sewell, who have been spending the past two weeks with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wills, Sr., in Fulton township, returned Saturday to their home in Milwaukee.

William Wille and son, Charles, spent Sunday in Monroe with relatives.

Miss Helen Stone, the noted lecturer, was billed for a lecture here Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. Her lecture was so interesting that she was requested to repeat it in the evening to a large and appreciative audience.

Keep Mum.

Good Advice.

Don't brag before you make good, and after you've made good you won't need to.—Life.

NOT SALTS, OIL OR PILLS BUT CASCARETS

No odds how sick your Stomach; how hard your head aches or how Bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

UNCLE TOM PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCES

Good Production of Old Time Favorite Given at Myers Theatre Saturday, Matinee and Evening.

Uncle Tom's Cabin, properly presented, is always a welcome visitor. Once each year it is greeted by crowded houses. Collier's colossal production of the famous old play, which appeared at the Myers Theatre Saturday, was far above the average organization of its kind, inasmuch as it was presented by thoroughly capable dramatic artists and had the scenic equipment of the most elaborate kind. The play was presented in its entirety. The big parade took place after dinner.

"Mona Lisa" Popular. It took its toll to give Da Vinci's masterpiece its widest fame. Mona Lisa as to how widespread has become the interest in the "Mona Lisa" may be gained from the story of a young couple who were in a quandary as to what to give as a wedding present to another young couple. "Let's give them a copy of 'Mona Lisa,'" finally said the young wife. "I saw a beauty in an antique shop the other day." The young husband agreed, and the copy was duly despatched to the home of the bride to be. On the night of the wedding the young couple who had given the "Mona Lisa" strolled into the room where the presents were on display. Imagine their chagrin and dismay to find the walls of the room fairly covered with copies of "Mona Lisa," several of them duplicates of the one they had sent.

Too Often Happens That Way. A Boston preacher tells that he once went out to preach at a country appointment. It was a rainy day, and there were but nine people in the congregation. The hymn chosen to begin the service was, "What menous this anger, anxious throng"

ACTUAL EVIDENCE

Can You SUCCEED in Taylor County, Wisconsin

I have sold a great deal of land, both improved and unimproved, in this great dairy county to Beloit people. I have some exceptional bargains for sale now in TAYLOR COUNTY, especially suited to the man of moderate means who wants to buy on easy terms. In this ad I will not attempt to go into the remarkable opportunities presented by this rapidly developing country where land is rising in value—NOT SENSATIONALLY—but STEADILY and SUBSTANTIALLY. I will let the evidence that follows speak for itself.

Although this store is large and is growing larger every year, it is not and never will be too large to appreciate the small purchaser. We welcome your purchases and give you the best of its kind whether the money involved is little or much. No transaction is so small that it is overlooked or so large that it is not handled in a painstaking, careful way that makes for the utmost satisfaction.

This is a store for "all the people all the time." It draws no dividing line between the courtesy extended to its customers. It is such a service that has made The Big Store the great establishment it is today.

This paper has been studying for some time past the relative importance, interest and appeal the "advertising" of a modern paper should bear to the other "news" set forth in its columns.

(The result is staggering to the reporter and editorial pride.)

It has forcibly come to us that, what interests the world most today and has most interested them since the world began, is summed up in—

WHAT TO EAT—WHAT TO WEAR—WHAT TO HAVE IN THE HOME—HOW TO BEST SPEND MONEY TO PROMOTE THE MOST PLEASURE AND HAPPINESS AND COMFORT.

Compared with these great points which vitally concern humanity, the lesser happenings of life are but incidents.

And the person best qualified to interest the people of this city in these matters of most moment are by all means the merchants—the men who are in touch with the world's markets—who know what is being done in the new discoveries and origination of merchandise and food stuffs, to raise standards of living or change modes and styles.

Do the people of this city really appreciate this great truth? Do the merchants appreciate it themselves, is a question this paper has been asking itself and also the question—

HOW CAN THIS PAPER HELP bring a closer confidence and sense of mutual understanding and benefit between advertiser and the public?

In answer to this question THIS PAPER HAS SET ASIDE THIS SPACE for one day each week and has asked the merchants of this city to contribute

(What in their opinion will be their (one) most appealing bargain.)

Moreover, we mean to devote this space one day each week to announcing these "best" bargains. We also mean to protect our merchants and our readers in the sincerity of all offerings, and so we will appoint a competent shopping committee to each week inspect all "best" bargain offerings and decide which in the ONE BEST BARGAIN OF ALL the decision of the committee to be published in the ad of the week following the insertion of the "best" bargains.

45 Merchants Have Responded— some with price cuts, some with "new arrivals" some with styro novelties, some with unique originations, some with offerings possessing more than ordinary appeal to eye, palate, or ear.

This Ad is Bound to Contain many things to interest and appeal to every reader of this paper—many needed items at a big saving, many wanted things, many new suggestions; and so, even if you haven't a need, desire or wish unfulfilled at the present time, the reading of this ad and the succeeding ads will be well worth your while in developing your discernment, just for the interest and satisfaction of determining in advance in your own mind the "bargain" which the committee will select as "best," your faculty for picking out real bargains when you see them and also because these announcements from every point of view are bound to make

The most interesting reading of any page in today's paper

Amos Rehberg Co.

Offering any $1.50 umbrella in their case for $1.00 were awarded first last week on the Gazette Best Bargain page by a committee of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church. The page was full of great bargains and this was justly chosen as the one best offer among the many.

Was this the bargain you decided was best last week?

Did you read and respond to that bargain page—you certainly missed the most interesting reading in the paper if you happened to overlook it—But here is another—just as brimful of interest to you—read every special—perhaps the very item you need most is set forth here the most extraordinary offering on the page.

The committee this week will be three ladies from the Independent Order of Good Templars

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

Bread and Butter Love.

MANY a man is giving his wife bread and butter love, and many a wife is furnishing her husband the same tame diet—a diet which Cupid must view with scorn. Bread and butter is undoubtedly a necessary factor in our existence, but existence is a bit brighter and happier, if, along with the bread and butter, goes now and then a little bit of jam.

Bread and butter love is the kind handed out by the husband who pays bills without grumbling, who never stays out at night, who is always on time for his meals, who never does anything to upset the orderly routine of the home, who, in a word, is always thoroughly reliable and dependable. His conduct is like clockwork. His wife at any hour of the twenty-four can put her finger on just what he will do and what he will say. This is all very estimable. But if he never goes beyond this it is terribly stodgy. It is a monotonous bread and butter fare, which, though it may be exceedingly good as bread and butter, grows monotonous. And almost any woman will long for a change, for in nearly every woman's nature is the craving for the poetry, the romance, the little tendernesses of love, in a word for some jam or frothy whipped cream to top off the plain bread and butter of existence. And sometimes, when she doesn't get it, she turns to the man who does give it. And then there is a tragedy, and the world calls her base and ungrateful for not appreciating the love of such a model husband.

Sometimes, it is the wife who offers the bread and butter. She is a good housekeeper. Everything runs like machinery in the home. Meals are always on time, and cooked to perfection. There's never a button missing from its place, and a hole is unknown in his socks. But that's the limits of her powers. There are none of the little coquettish, none of the whimsicalities, the unaccountabilities, that were the charm of the girl, and should be among the most valuable assets of the wife. And when she turns to some one who has these things. And women shake their heads and say, "What's the use of being a good housekeeper?"

But even if no such catastrophe happen, and the two get along on this bread and butter fare, they are missing much of the sweet, purest joy of married life. For though these matter-of-fact things are essential, they are not the whole of life. And the more accurately we estimate their true value and put them where they belong, and rise to the enjoyment of the things of the spirit, the happier and the more beautiful life will become.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WELL, I would like to know what became of that quarter I just gave away. I heard a man say the other day, "The poor devil I gave it to swore that he hadn't had anything to eat for two days. Of course, he may have wanted it for a drink, or he may have more money than I have, but what can you do when a man says he's starving? I'd rather help ten men who didn't deserve it, than refuse one who was really hungry."

I think the quandary in which this man found himself is a very common one. I don't believe there is anyone who goes about much, but has often been asked for money to buy food with, and has wondered, as he gave it, if it would really be used for that purpose.

Wherefore, I want to tell you of the man-who-thinks' solution of this quandary. From the Salvation Army in the city in which he lives, he produced a number of tickets, some good for a full meal and some for a night's lodging at the Army's headquarters. When anyone asks him for money for food or lodging, he gives him one of these tickets. If the supplicant is really hungry, he presents the ticket and receives the meal or the lodging. At the end of each month, the man-who-thinks settles with the Salvation Army for all the tickets marked with his special number which have been presented.

In this way, he is sure of never turning away anyone who really wants food, and at the same time of not giving money to professional beggars.

Doesn't the man-who-thinks' way appeal to you as a rather clever solution of the difficulty?

"My Dear Miss Cameron:—
"Will you please, some time, write one of your little articles on the subject of a man taking a woman's arm when on the street, coming home from the theatre and so on? When the lady is old or there is a crowd, or it is raining, or the couple are engaged. It may be all right (though even then it seems to me she should take his arm); but in pleasant weather, when the streets are not crowded, nothing arouses my resentment like watching a man take hold of my arm and 'walk me ahead' faster, perhaps, than I care to go. As a general thing, after a man has done it once, I refuse further invitations to go out with him, yet, I think it is done unconsciously, without meaning to give offense, and I know no way to stop it."

"Please, in your own inimitable way, write it up some time, and very much obliged."

"One Who Usually Agrees With Miss Cameron."

If "my own inimitable way" were half so inimitable as my correspondent's, I should have gladly complied with her request.

As it is, I feel quite justified in merely passing along the hint with the endorsement—"Them's my sentiments, too."

By the way, I wonder that she omitted to mention a similar masculine trick—that of "showing" one up the carbonyne by the elbow.

When one is quite able-bodied it is certainly infuriating to be thus "hoisted" up a perfectly ordinary step.

As my correspondent says, I believe that this is done "unconsciously, and without meaning to give offense," but, I trust that every man who reads this will stop, look and reflect, and if he is an offender in this respect, offend no more.

EST onions alone lurk within the bowl
And half suspected animate the whole.
—Stanley Smith.

So near I shall be that your best friend shall wish I had been further.

VALUE OF THE ONION.

The onion has wonderful properties and is both a food and a medicine. For colds and coughs it is a remedy popular through many generations.

A few onions sliced and sprinkled generously with sugar, put into the oven and baked until the onion and sirup is brown is a cough medicine hard to equal.

Raw onions are said to cure bronchitis and throat affections.

The only drawback to the full enjoyment of this homely vegetable is the odor which it leaves on the breath. Fresh parsley eaten after eating onions is the best remedy to counteract the onion odor.

Raw onion is more stimulating than cooked ones and they are said to have a beneficial effect on the complexion, so the onion eaters have some compensation.

Creamed Onions on Toast.—Peel onions all of one size and put to cook in a little stock with a blade of mace, and cook gently until tender. Drain and keep the onions hot, then add a half cup of milk to the onion liquid. Add a little flour and butter cooked together. Boil and season. Prepare a piece of toast for each onion. Add a yolk of egg to the sauce, lay an onion on each piece of toast, pour over some of the sauce, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve hot.

Chopped onion seasoned with a bit of mustard, salt and olive oil and vinegar makes a very appetizing filling for sandwiches. Serve them for Sunday night lunch—after church.

The delicious flavor of the onion is used in countless dishes and eaten with relish by many who profess to dislike the flavor.

Stuffed Onions.—Parboil large-sized onions and remove the centers. Fill with seasoned sausage or a filling of nuts and crumbs. Bake and baste with soup stock or butter and water. Serve as a garnish for pork roast, chops or steak.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

HURRIED EATING.

The satisfaction from eating is not due to the depositing of food in the stomach but to the sensation of taste and the impression upon the nervous system from the motions of mastication. In hurried eating these effects are not normal and nervous dyspepsia and other maladies result. It has been said that we are a nation of dyspeptics, and the quick lunch habit is largely to blame. Hurry is the twin sister of worry. One who has acquired the habit of eating hurriedly must exercise patience in learning to eat slowly. Many find it helpful to hold in mind the thought that no taste should be swallowed and that the next mouthful of food will taste no better than the one in the mouth.

FASCINATING WORK IS ONE WOMAN'S VERDICT

Preparations for Winter "Is Just Fun" Writes One Young Housewife to The Feature Editor.

"It is just fun to prepare for winter the startling statement of one young Jamesville housewife in a letter to the Feature Editor, 'and that the task a becoming regular play for me,' she writes later in the same letter."

If it is a game, why then it will be all the easier to write about. However, there is plenty of good hard work or every housewife who undertakes to do it all at once. The idea of the Feature Editor is not to discover just how it is all done at the end, with a rush, but what preparations the busy housewife makes during the whole year for the next winter.

Sometimes, on the farm, they make their own soap. This, of course, is interesting, but not necessary. Sometimes in the city the soap is bought by the box and stored away in a good, dry place to ripen and be ready for the washing. This is also an interesting part of the winter's preparation, but not exactly what is meant in this article.

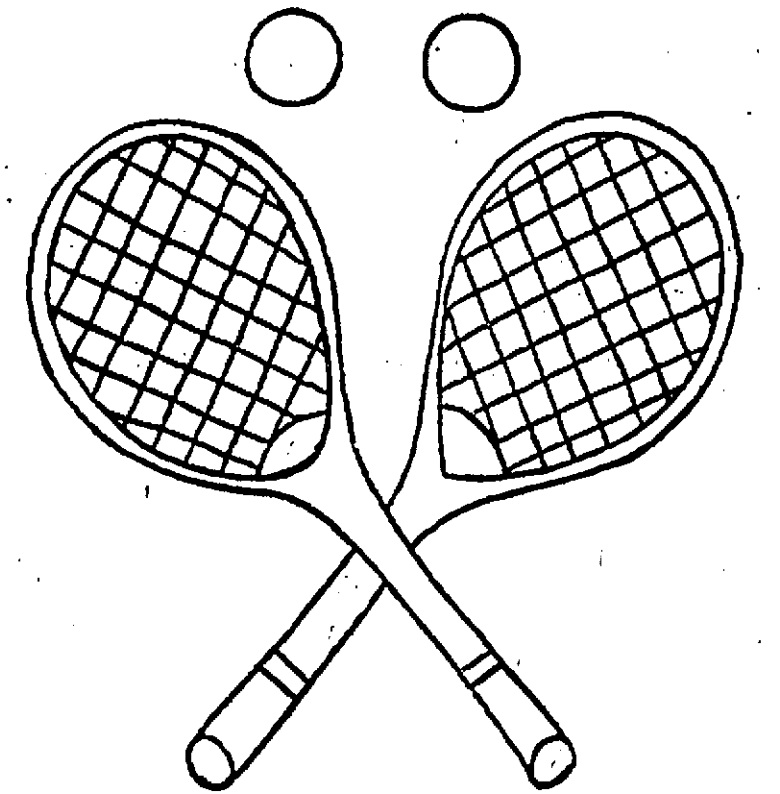

What the Feature Editor is trying to get at, is how to best prepare for the winter during the winter months. This does not mean a wet, muddy, but what preparations are made, what is stored away, if anything. What the housewife does—depends on the grocer or her own supplies for the most part. Your experience will help other housewives and will prove interesting reading to every woman reader of this page. Write

SMART WRAP FOR THE LITTLE MISS!

Not the least interesting fashions are those designed for tiny tots. A pretty little brown-eyed elf, in a coat of buff broadcloth drew my attention to this fact the other day. Her attire had all the smart simplicity that befits the exclusive children's outfit, and yet it offered excellent suggestions to the little mother who makes all the garments of her own small daughter.

A collar of bright brown broadcloth ended in a wide point at the left side front, and tapered into a band at the

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Tall Effects in Table Setting.—Revival of Old Shapes.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Most middle aged housewives have a cake basket set away on the top shelf. It speaks of her early house-keeping days and of little company affairs but "the children" for years have smiled at the very sight of it. Never mind, it is coming to its own again and unless it was one of those ugly, poorly plated specimens it may now have an honored place on the table. It is more often used now for fruits, hot breads and sandwiches than cake which does not figure so largely in the modern menu as formerly.

In its early days doubtless it offered slices of frosted cake or cubes of sponge cake laid round on a red and white dolly.

On that upper shelf also may be found some stem glasses or goblets as they were called, and long ago dishes carried for tumbler which the housewife knew well enough were not as attractive but they were the fashion and less likely to break, a quality not to be overlooked. All glasses, even those for sherbet, are now preferred of the stem variety. Compotters and small dishes on standards are again in use, in fact a visit to a high class china store reveals the fact that almost every sort of a dish, except the dinner plate, is fitted with little feet or a standard for even some of the new tea cups are footed.

Now and then we hear that bread and butter plates are no longer used but they continue to be seen on well set tables and are indispensable. Individual butter plates, sometimes called chips, like bone plates are not used except in restaurants.

Instead of using a silver cloth some housewives are now buying round, square mats exactly the size of their table tops. They cost about four dollars but a handsome table is worth saving at considerable cost. The mats are made so that they may be folded and put away in a comparatively small space; it is also possible to secure sections to fit additional leaves as they are put in.

For several years past table setting was planned to give a flat effect. Low baskets or dishes of flowers were preferred on the plea that tall vases obstructed the view across the table although in no other way can they be made so graceful. Now there is a decided change and tall high floral decorations are in favor. The housewife who has tall silver and cut glass vases is fortunate but she who owns a number of dark dull green glass vases entirely free from decoration should be perfectly satisfied. Nothing is more appropriate than these vases, some with plain straight tops and others with tulip shape which allow sprays to fall over gracefully. For those who like, and can have novelties, there are groups of four vases, connected with fine gilt chains, to be used as center pieces but such things must always be a part of a collection as they become tiresome when seen too often.

A young matron on the alert for everything proper and also for her dining room table, asks what a tree planter is like. She will learn that it is not an item in the average dinner set. In china one finds it sometimes in old Canton and also in silver in Sheffield plate. It takes its name from the grooves made for the grapes and juices and which are in the form of a conventional tree with branches, trunk and root at which point the depression is deepest and allows one who serves to dip out its contents with a spoon.

The housewife fortunate enough to be able to furnish her dining room in old mahogany, or reproductions that are no less beautiful, must remember that in the old days no glass was placed on the side board except decanters and crystal bowls with covers. It is well to follow this custom of placing salad bowls, tumblers and all stem glasses and pitchers behind glass doors of a china closet as they were kept in the days of the corner cupboard.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others, you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GRANTON, 61 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case, write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

'CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should not Be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicates indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disordered or abused stomachs.

We urge all in Jamesville who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Hezal Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c box of Hezal Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 days' treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Hezal Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee St., Jamesville, Wis.

Thought Today

By MRS. ROBERT N. LAPOLETTE

IMPROVE IN HEALTH.

AN ABLE physician, speaking of the health of women, said: "Why, if they were to change their habits of life it would ruin our business." When we consider how much ill-health there is among women and its serious consequences to home and society, we hardly need the observation of this wise doctor to prove the need of more healthful life habits.

Most women nowadays take for granted the advantage of intellectual effort. Some of us live in terror lest we lose a single opportunity for mind culture. We join clubs, attend lectures, take up new studies, read books, all in the hope that we may not grow rusty, out of date, but may keep the mind alive, under control, ready for use.

Is there any reason why physical training may not do as much for the body as intellectual training does for the mind? I remember years ago being impressed with the significance of a recommendation of the War Department to members of congress that they make their appointments to West Point by competitive examinations, as it had been found easier to overcome physical defects than mental disqualifications. Experience and observation have strengthened my belief in that principle as applied to persons of all ages and vocations.

Every woman if she has no serious organic ailment, can by persistent effort, improve in health and strength. She may not become as strong or stronger than some other woman, but she may become stronger than she herself now is. "I keep about the same" should not be a cause for complaint, but a ground of hopefulness and spur to renewed effort to improve in health. But remember no one can acquire health vicariously. A good groom can do much for his horse, but he cannot take his exercise for him.

CHURCH CUSTODIAN OF WHOLESOME TRUTH

ORGANIZATION OF PEOPLE FOR PROMOTION OF TEACHING OF JESUS CHRIST

IS SPIRITUAL FORCE

The Rev. J. W. Laughlin of Presbyterian Church Delivers Sermon on "What the Church Means to Me."

"The church is an association of men and women who believe in Jesus Christ and desire to project his teaching into the world; an organization which contains and is the custodian of a body of wholesome truth; a body which teaches that and embodied himself in Jesus Christ; that believes Jesus Christ has the power to save from sin; and an organization which is a spiritual force in the community."

These are the fundamental attributes of the church according to the Rev. J. W. Laughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian church, expressed in his sermon last evening on the subject, "What the Church Means to Me."

"My own conception of the church," said the speaker, "may be quite different from those of the average man, or the usual church goer, for I was, so to speak, brought up in the church; reverence for its men, for its teachings, and for its purposes was instilled into my mind from my earliest days up; its life was the life of my home and my society, but nevertheless, I am confident that these conceptions of the church are essential to its continuance and its well-being."

"First of all, the church to me is an association of men and women who believe in Jesus Christ and desire to project his teaching into the world; to see those teachings become the principles of conduct and action of all men. I do not conceive of the church as standing for any particular doctrine, baptism, foreordination, or predestination. I believe that in the churches where these are emphasized they are conscious that these doctrines are incomplete and insufficient, and coming to believe that they should be given a more subordinate place."

Furthermore, the church, in my opinion, is an organization which contains and is the custodian of a body of wholesome truth; the doctrine of one God as opposed to many gods; belief in a final cause who is God himself, in a moral law with divine sanction."

"I do not know how to define God and do not believe that. One who has attempted to do so have made our conception of him any clearer. The teaching of the bible is that God animates the world. We do not know how, or in what way, but neither do we know how or why the spirit animates the body. Yet it is there and we never question its operation."

"We greatly need a keener sense of the immanence of God, of His all pervading presence; to know that he is with us in the locked office, in the darkened room, with us in our daily tasks, and a companion in our hours of leisure. If this idea could be firmly implanted in our minds, our thoughts, our acts, our relations with our God and our fellow men would be closer to the ideal which has been set for us."

"The church teaches that God embodied himself in Jesus Christ; how, we do not really know or explain, but neither can we explain the power of mind over matter. We have only to rely upon the teaching of Holy Writ and the work of the Holy Spirit."

"The saving power of Jesus Christ is another fundamental doctrine of the church; the first which was taught and the foremost in importance, and upon it rests the whole structure and design of the church."

"I can not think of the church as otherwise than a spiritual force in the community; if it is not such a force it does not fulfill my conception of a church. We have come to look with disfavor upon the word spiritual, and to emphasize the material and tangible, but herein we err, for man is even more spiritual than material, and that side of his nature is the key to his higher self and in its culture lies the way to a better life."

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A YOUNG KING'S DREAM.

By A. W. MACY.

Never perhaps did a king enter upon his reign with more exalted ideals than did Otto III, King of Germany and Holy Roman Emperor. Never perhaps did a king fall more utterly to realize his ambition. Born in 980, he came to his throne in 993, a mere boy; yet such were his intellectual attainments that his generation called him the wonder of the world. Intensely religious, he believed himself divinely commissioned to do a great work for humanity. He had a magnificent scheme for making Rome the center of a new universal empire, with all the other kingdoms of the earth tributary to it. He revealed in the glories of the past, and it was the dream of his young life to restore them in all their magnificence. On his last journey to Rome he opened the tomb of Charlemagne, at Aix-la-Chapelle, and gazed upon the long dead monarch, sitting on his marble throne, in the same body two years from that time they brought his own body back across the Alps and laid it near that of the great Emperor. He died at 22, on the very threshold of manhood, his dreams unfulfilled.

MUST START SCHOOL IF IT IS DEMANDED BY THE TAXPAYERS

New Law Which Makes it Possible to Have Night Schools Conducted in the City.

One of the many new laws which were passed by the last legislature in reference to educational advantages is that demanding the establishment of night schools in cities over five thousand by tax payers. The law on this interesting subject and that of general educational topics is most interesting and excerpts are printed below.

1. To receive petition signed by not less than twenty-five persons for establishment of night school, commercial, continuation or evening school.

2. To report to the common council or village or town clerk in each year the amount of money required for support of the school.

3. To report the amount of money needed for purchase of school sites, all additions thereto, with fixtures and supplies; the rate of taxes for this purpose to be in addition to all other taxes levied for other purposes but not to exceed one-half mill for each year.

4. To fix qualifications of teachers and to employ teachers.

5. To expend moneys appropriated for these schools by order upon the town, village or city treasurer.

6. To have power to charge tuition for non-resident pupils.

7. To make sworn statement to the clerk of attendance of non-residents.

8. To file such statement as claim against the town, village or city where such non-resident pupils reside.

9. May establish a fixed sum to be paid by each student in the school to cover all cost of material consumed.

10. To place all moneys received in the local treasury.

11. To purchase machinery and necessary equipment.

12. To purchase or lease suitable grounds and buildings for the use of schools, school buildings to be used when practicable.

13. To make contracts for instruction in various branches with the extension division of the university.

14. To establish industrial, commercial, continuation or evening schools upon application made therefor by not less than 25 persons qualified to be students.

Duties of City Boards of Education.

To appoint at once a local industrial board composed of the city superintendent, ex-officio, or the high school principal if there be no city superintendent, and four other members, two of whom shall be employers of labor and two employees. (This is obligatory in cities of 5,000 inhabitants or over, and may be done in cities of less than 5,000 inhabitants.)

Duties of Children Between the Ages of 14 and 16.

"Whenever any evening school, continuation classes, industrial school, or commercial school shall be established in any town, village or city in this state for minors between the ages of 14 and 16, working under permit as now provided by law, every such child residing within any town, village or city in which any such school is established, shall attend such school not less than five hours per week for six months in each year until such child becomes sixteen years of age, and every employer shall allow all minor employees over fourteen and under sixteen years of age a reduction in hours of work of not less than the number of hours the minor is by this act required to attend school."

Illiterate minors over sixteen years of age must attend continuation schools if there be such in the city in which they are employed.

FIVE ARE GIVEN JAIL TERMS FOR INTOXICATION

Seventh Arrested on Same Charge Pays Fine—Two Brothers Get Into Trouble.

Seven drunks filed before Judge P. H. Hild this morning to plead guilty to charges of intoxication, and out of this number but one was able to pay his fine. The fortunate one was Walter Minette of Watworth, a stranger to the court, who paid as penalty for his doleful $2 and costs. Henry Knudson of Stoughton was among those to receive jail sentences. In default of a $3 fine, being given a term of seven days. He told the judge that he had difficulty in speaking English. Clement and Morton Simmons, brothers, were given twelve days each. They had been working in the country and overtaxed their capacity while in town Saturday night. Jack Dooley, an old offender, was sentenced to fifteen days in spite of his plea for another opportunity to straighten up. The police report that he had been abusing and threatening his neighbors. Andrew Furlong, picked up at the St. Paul depot, also received a jail penalty.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By H. L. RANN.

THE GAS METER.

The gas meter is a neat household utensil which descends in a straight line from Ananias and the Forty Thieves. Careful research has demonstrated the fact that the inventor of this device was a church member of a church which was so crooked that it had to employ a one-armed elder to pass the collection box.

Only men who can lay a gas meter on its back and take its pulse without offering up a fervent prayer for forgiveness in a sin-hardened employee of a soulless corporation whose favorite hymn is "A Charge to Keep I Have." A meter which is a bulging bank account fastened to a man's back and up with profit and wheat markets. We don't know of anything that will corrupt the morals of a law-abiding citizen quicker than a gas meter which takes the bite in its teeth and runs faster than a sneaked dog with a lead. A meter which has been wound up by an unscrupulous plumber with a chattel mortgage on his bed-room furniture can gouge more eddies out of a hopeful breadwinner than he can earn by trying to back up the cash register. The man who takes the word of a gas meter which has been installed without the presence of a notary public is credulous enough to believe that Joshua held the patent rights of an emergency brake on the solar system. After a sportive husband has gone up against the returns from a meter which trips itself faster than a stout girl on roller skates, he will look a set at loaded dice in the eyes with calm and trusted men. The only way to head this device is to join the board of directors.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Ruggles' Offer.

He felt as he waited for her in that flower-filled room, for she had recovered from her distant forerunners, as he glanced at the photographs of women like herself in costume more or less frank, more or less vulgar, he felt as though he wanted to knock down the walls and let in a big view of the west—of Montana—of the hills. With such a setting he thought he could better talk with the lady whom he had come to see.

Ruggles held an unlighted cigar between his fingers and gooseflesh rose all over him. His glasses bothered him. He couldn't get them bright enough, though he polished them half a dozen times on his silk handkerchief. His clothes felt too large. He seemed to have shrunk. He moistened his lips, cleared his throat, tried to remember what kind of fellow he had been at Dan's age. At Dan's age he was selling a suspender patent on the road, supporting his mother and his sisters—hard work and few temptations; he was too tired and too poor.

Miss Lane kept him waiting ten minutes, and they were hours to her guest. He was afraid every minute that Dan would come in. The thought he had gathered together, the plan of action, disarranged itself in his mind every time he thought of the actress. He couldn't forget his vision of her on the stage or at the Carlton, where she had sat opposite them and bewitched them both. When she came into the sitting-room at length, he started so violently that he knocked over a vase of flowers, the water trickling all over the table down on to the floor.

She had dazzled him before the foot-lights, charmed him at dinner, and it was singular to think that he knew how this dignified, quiet creature looked in bullet clothes and in a dinner dress, whose frankness had made him catch his breath. It was a third woman who stood before Ruggles now. He had to take her into consideration. She had expected him, saw him by appointment. She had not climbed to her stony position without having acquired a knowledge of men, and it was the secret of her success. She showed it in the dress in which she received her visitor. She wore a short walking skirt of heavy serge, a simple white waist belted around, a sailor hat on her beautiful little head. She was unjeweled and unadorned, very pale and very sweet. It had not been for the marks of fatigue under her eyes, she would not have looked more than eighteen. On her left hand a single diamond, clear as water, caught the refracted light.

"How do-do? Glad you are back again."

She gave him a big chair and sat down before him, smiling. Leaning her elbows on her knees, she sank her face upon her hands and looked at him not coquettishly in the least, but as a child might have looked. From her small feet to her golden head she was utterly charming.

Ruggles made himself think of Dan. Miss Lane spoke slowly, nodding toward him, in her languid voice: "It's no use, Mr. Ruggles, no use."

Holding her face between her hands, her eyes gray as winter's seas and as profound, she looked at him intently; then, in a flash, she changed her position and instantly transformed her character. He saw that she was a woman, not an eighteen-year-old girl, but a woman, clever, poised, witty, understanding, and that she might have been twenty years older than the boy.

"I'm sorry you spoke so quick," he said.

"I know," she interrupted, "just what you wanted to say from the start. I couldn't help it, could I? I knew you would want to come and see me about it. It isn't any use. I know just what you are going to say."

"No, ma'am," he returned, "I don't believe you do—bright as you are."

Ruggles gazed thoughtfully at the old end of his unlighted cigar. It was a comfort to him to hold it and to look at it, although not for any thing in the world would he have asked to light it.

"Dan's father and me were chums. We went through pretty much together, and I know how he felt on most points. He was a man of few words, but I know he counted on me to stand by the boy."

Ruggles was so chivalrous that his role at present cost him keen discomfort.

"A lady like you," he said gently, "knows a great deal more about how things are done than either Dan or me. We ain't tenderfoot in the west, not by a long shot, but we see so few of a certain kind of picture shows that when they do come round they're likely to make us lose our minds. You know, yourself, a circus in a town fifty miles from a railroad drives the people crazy. Now, Dan's a little like the boy with his eyes on the hole in the tent. He would commit murder to get inside and see that show. He nodded and smiled to her as though he expected her to follow his crude smile. "Now, I have seen you a lot of times. And she couldn't help reminding him, "Not of your own accord, Mr. Ruggles."

"Well, I don't know," he slowly admitted; "I always felt I had my money's worth, and the night you ate with us at the Carlton I understood pretty well how the boy with his eyes at the tent hole would feel. But he tapped his broad chest with the hand that held the cigar between his first and second fingers. "I know just what kind of a heart you've got, for I waited at the stage door and I know you don't get all the applause inside the Gaiety theater."

"Goodness," she murmured, "they make an awful fuss about nothing."

"Now," he continued, leaning forward a trifle toward her languid, half-interested figure, "I just want you to think of him as a little boy. He's only twenty-two. He knows nothing of the world. The money you give to the poor doesn't come so hard perhaps as this will. It's a big sacrifice, but I want you to let the boy go."

She smiled slightly, found her handkerchief, which was tucked up the cuff of her blouse, pressed the little bit of linen to her lips as though to steady them, then she asked abruptly:

"What has he said to you?"

"Lord!" Ruggles groaned. "Said to me! My dear young lady, he is much too rude to speak. Dan sort of breathes and snorts around like a lunatic. He was dangling around that duchess when I was here before, but she didn't scare me any."

And Letty Lane, now smiling at him, relished by his break from a more intense tone, asked:

"Now, you are scared?"

"Well," Ruggles drawled, "I was pretty sure that woman didn't care anything for the boy. Are you her kind?"

It was the best stroke he had made. She almost sprang up from her chair. "Heavens," she exclaimed, "I guess I'm not!" Her face flushed.

"I had rather see a son of mine dead than married to a woman like that," he said.

"Why, Mr. Ruggles," she exclaimed passionately, addressing him with interest for the first time, "what do you know about me? What? What? You have seen me dance and heard me sing."

And he interrupted her.

"Ten times, and you are a hilly dancer and a hilly singer, but you do other things than dance and sing. There is not a man living that would want to have his mother dress that way."

She controlled a smile. "Never mind that. People's opinions are very different about that sort of thing. You have seen me at dinner with your boy, as you call him, and you can't say that I did anything but ask him to help the poor. I haven't let Dan on. I have tried to show him just what you are making me go through now."

If she acted well and danced well, it was hard for her to talk. She was evidently under strong emotion and it needed her control not to burst into tears and lose her chance.

"Of course, I know the things you have heard. Of course, I know what is said about me"—and she stopped.

Ruggles didn't press her any further; he didn't ask her if the things were true. Looking at her as he did, watching her as he did, there was in him a feeling so new, so troubling that he found himself more anxious to protect her than to bring her to justice.

"There are worse, far worse women than I am, Mr. Ruggles. I will never do Dan any harm."

Here her visitor leaned forward and put one of his big hands lightly over one of hers, patted it a moment, and said:

"I want you to do a great deal better than that."

She had picked up a photograph of the table, a pretty picture of herself in "Mandelay," and turned it nervously between her fingers as she said with irritation:

"I haven't been in the theatrical world not to guess at this 'Worried Father' act, Mr. Ruggles. I told you I knew just what you were going to say."

"Wrong!" he repeated. "The business is old enough perhaps, lots of good jobs are old, but this is a little different."

He took the turning picture and laid it on the table, and quietly possessed himself of the small cold hands. His fingers shone up to him. Ruggles looked into Letty Lane's eyes. "He is only twenty-two; it ain't fair, it ain't fair. He could count the times he has been on a lark, I guess. He hasn't even been to an eastern college. He is no fool, but he's darned simple."

She smiled faintly. The man's face, near her own, was very simple indeed. "You have seen so much," he urged, "so many fellows. You have been such a queen, I dare say you could get any man you wanted." He repeated, "Most any man."

"I have never seen any one like Dan."

"Just so; he ain't your kind. That is what I am trying to tell you."

She withdrew her hand from his violently.

"There you are wrong. He is my kind. He is what I like, and he is what I want to be like."

A wave of red dyed her face, and, in a tone more passionate than she had ever used to her lover, she said to Ruggles:

"I love him—I love him! His words sent something like a sword through the older man's heart. He said gently: 'Don't say it. He doesn't know what love means yet.'"

He wanted to tell her that the girl Dan married should be the kind of woman his mother was, but Ruggles couldn't bring himself to say the words. Now, as he sat near her, he was growing so complex that his brain was turning round. He heard her murmur:

"I told you I knew your act, Mr. Ruggles. It isn't any use."

This brought him back to his position and once more he leaned toward her and, in a different tone from the one he had intended to use, murmured:

"You don't know. You haven't any idea. I do ask you to let Dan go, that's a fact. I have got something else to propose in his place. It ain't quite the same, but it is clear—marry me!"

She gave a little exclamation. A slight smile rippled over her face like the sunset across a pale pool at dawn. "Laugh," he said humbly; "don't keep in. I know I am old-fashioned as the deuce, and me and Dan is quite a contrast, but I mean just what I say, my dear."

She controlled her amusement, if it was that. It almost made her cry with mirth, and she couldn't help it. Between laughing breaths she said to him:

"Oh, is it all for Dan's sake, Mr. Ruggles? Is it?" And then, biting her lips and looking at him out of her beautiful eyes, she said: "I know it is—I know it is—I beg your pardon."

"I asked a girl once when I was poor—too poor. Now this is the second time in my life. I mean just what I say. I'll make you a kind husband. I am fifty-five, hullo as a nut. I dare say you have had many better offers."

"Oh, dear," she breathed; "oh, dear, please—please stop!"

"But I don't expect you to marry me for anything but my money."

Ruggles put his finger down on the edge of the table. He looked at his chair meditatively, he took out his silk handkerchief, polished up his glasses, readjusted them, put them on and then looked at her.

"Now," he said, "I am going to trust you with something, and I know you will keep my secret for me. This shows you a little bit of what I think about you. Dan Blair hasn't got a red cent. He has nothing but what I give him. There's a false title to all that land on the Bentley claim. The whole thing came up when I was home and the original company, of which I own three-quarters of the stock, holds the clear title to the Blairtown mines. It all belongs now to me, if I choose to present my documents. Dan knows nothing about this—not a word."

Weed Makes Food for Wonder.

Interesting operations have recently taken place on the Haining Loch in Scotland. For well nigh a century now this loch has been frequented by a microscope floating water weed which in the summer time causes great discoloration of the water, turning it into a muddy brownish color. In winter the loch regains its natural color, the weed sinking to the bottom. The plant belongs to the great division of freshwater algae. Recently there was dissolved in the loch over half a ton of sulphate of copper, and according to all appearance, the weed has been killed. It is interesting to note that in no other loch in the British Isles is this plant to be found.

Scarcity of Great Actresses.

Although acting is essentially a feminine art, Englishwomen are making far less mark in it at the present time than in probably any other period of our theatrical history. We have no Mrs. Siddons.—London Tatler.

Want to Feel Young

It's Olive Tablets For You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few continued days, especially in Old People, unless you take yourself in hand.

Coax the faded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for cathartics. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines with nasty, sickening cathartics.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Try Olive Tablets mixed with olive oil and have no trouble with your bowels or stomach.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

All druggists sell them in neat pocket packages—at 10c and 25c.

Villages All Islands.

A curious and picturesque region is the "Spreewald," not far from Berlin. It contains a number of villages, each in its way a miniature Venice, with every house on a little island. Each of these islands is joined by bridges, by means of which a slender land connection is kept up throughout the district. Most of the business and amusements, however, is carried on through the canals, which not only form the main highways, but cross and recross like network the whole region. The postman goes from house to house in a skiff; the policeman glides in their boats up and down the canals, and the tradesmen go their dilly rounds in quaint-looking craft heavily laden with merchandise. Even the children go in boats to and from school and little fleets of gondolas take the natives to church on Sunday. In short, it is a land of boats and bounties.

Theft Astonishes Caretakers.

A strange robbery of a cardinal's body has been committed in the St. Pierre chapel at Nancy, France. Two cleaners in the church noticed that the flagstone of one of the tombs had been displaced, and on further investigation discovered that the tomb was empty. It should have contained two coffins, that of Cardinal de Lorraine, son of Charles III, duke of Lorraine, and that of an army lieutenant, but both had disappeared. Historians are amazed at the disappearance of the cardinal's body, and no motive can be attributed for the theft.

RECIPROCITY

"POP! I WISH YOU WOULDN'T SMOKE WHEN I AM AROUND."
"WHY NOT, MILLIE?"
"WELL, I DON'T WHEN YOU ARE AROUND."

He Had His Suspicion.

One day a farmer member of the Ohio house displayed, inadvertently, a large roll of bills in the Neil house lobby. A fellow member gazed in awe at the show of wealth.
"I just sold a drove of hogs," explained the farmer member rather hastily and confidently.
The observing one was thoughtful. He did not reply for the half-minute usually essential to the full-measured heat of his mental process. And then—
"Yess," he drawled, "and I'll bet I'm one o' them hawsers."—Success.

True to His Promise.

"Dearest, will you let me share your every sorrow after we are married?" she whispered as she cuddled her cheek against his.
"Yes, darling," he replied, again plucking a delicious kiss from her sweet lips.
It was the same lady who two years later wearily cried out:
"Oh, Tom, why can't you ever come into the house without bringing a tale of trouble with you? I'm so sick of hearing about how hard you have to work to keep the bills paid."

Regretful.

"Confound it! You came within an inch of running me down!" exclaimed the irate pedestrian.
"Ah, me, so I did," sighed the chauffeur. "And a miles, they say, is as good as a mile. My driving is not what it used to be."

FORTY YEARS AGO

From the Janesville Gazette, October 23, 1871.

Chris Shurz lectures this evening in Chicago for the benefit of the fire sufferers.

A fire in the woods on the property of Mrs. Hanco, north of the city, yesterday, caused no little alarm on the part of the residents of that neighborhood. The people turned out and succeeded in subduing the flames before much damage was done. The fire was caused by hunters in the woods and the people of that locality wish us to warn all hunters to keep away from there if they value their safety. They seem to be in earnest and we consider it our duty to warn the boys of the way they feel.

Miss Frankie Wiggins has been engaged to play the organ at the Court Street Church during the coming year. Frank Ford will act as leader of the choir. Both people have filled these positions to the satisfaction of the public during the past year, and it is gratifying to know they are to be retained.

The thermometer registered seven-tens above zero this afternoon. The weather deserves a puff.

Charles R. Mosely started for California today to be gone about two months.

Thos. Tennent's lively mule team ran away again this morning. No damage was done.

The proceeds of the aid concert were two hundred and fifty-two dollars and the expenses were eight dollars.

The Congregational church have just completed the installation of an organ and will give a concert sometime in the near future.

BY WALT MASON

To save the forests and the coal, we must betimes in Kansas City, and spring good long CONSERVATIVE rigamarole, and a soul-inspiring ditty. We talk at dinner and at lunch, on how to save the country's lands, and then we go, the whole picture bunch, to have a fine group picture taken. Long may our golden banners wave! Long may we wage this noble battle! The land's resources we shall save, if we must paw-paw at Seattle! We'll scourge the pillagers away, and drive the Morgenthauers batty, 'o'n thought to win the fateful fray we have to meet at Cincinnati! The talkfest is the shining sword with which we'll stop the apollers' capers! So let's onto till crowds are bored, and read our long and prony papers; or all who don't agree with us we'll pass our caustic, savage strictures, and after all the pleasant fuss we'll go and sit for moving pictures. We battle for eternal right, for home—be it hell or abnomy—and we shall win the sacred right, though we must meet at Ypsilanti!

Small French Landowners.

There are no large landholders in the English or American or Russian sense, but 8,500,000 Frenchmen own outright the farms which they cultivate. Some of them consist only of a field or two, but all are sufficient, with great patience and skillful tillage, to support life, bring up a family and even give the daughters a modest dowry.

Over-Confidence.

When you have played checkers for three nights at a country grocery and spent another three in arguing as to whether the whole swaddled Jonah, you naturally feel that you can go out into the world and beat the con man at his own game. It is the self-confidence in one's own abilities that is responsible for half the world's walling.

Rajah's Triumph Over Motor Car.

To-day we came upon a rajah driving in a motor car drawn by a pair of horses!
